

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A nonwoven fabric, and method of production, are disclosed, wherein the nonwoven fabric comprises textile length fibers with a portion being thermally fusible. The fabric exhibits sufficient durability to withstand commercial dyeing 5 processes, with the resultant fabric finding widespread applicability by virtue of its durability and aesthetic appeal.